STUFFED DOG BECOMES A PORTAL FOR DARKNESS

By Paul Dale Roberts, Halo Paranormal Investigations

I get a lot of calls on our Paranormal Hotline. At one time, I would investigate cases all over Northern California. Nowadays, because of my busy schedule podcasting and writing articles, I only investigate paranormal hotspots in and around Sacramento.

On November 5, 2024, I received an interesting call from Gloria S. and Ariela L. who live in a home located in Gold River. While they had lived in this home for eight years, paranormal activity began in the home only five months ago.

First, there was tapping on the walls. Then, there were knockings on the wall. At first, they thought they had rats or raccoons living inside the walls and called out a pesticide professional. However, he found no activity of a varmint infestation.

Then, on one night, they heard loud footsteps on the roof of the house. Ariela ran outside to see who was on the roof, but no one was there.

This cursed stuffed dog became the eerie centerpiece of a haunting in Gold River, California.

Cute Gift Turns Creepy With Scary Shadow and Unexplained Scratches

Gloria said that Ariela gave her a cute stuffed dog on Valentine's Day. The stuffed dog held a red heart and a lighted propeller that would read "I Love You" when the song "24K Magic" by Bruno Mars played. After the roof incident, her three cats attacked the stuffed dog. The cats took out an eye and chewed up the propellor.

This behavior from the cats was shocking, according to Gloria, because her cats never tore up things in the house. Gloria placed the stuffed dog on her kitchen counter and was deciding if she was going to keep the damaged stuffed dog or just throw it away.

That night, she heard a loud plate crash on the kitchen floor. Gloria and Ariela ran into the kitchen and saw what they described as a large, demonic shadow against the wall. The shadow seemed to be coming from the stuffed dog. The shadow displayed the heart as being upside down, even though the actual heart on the stuffed dog was not upside down. The heart should not even have shown up on the shadow, because the stuffed dog's torso covered the heart. The shadow also had horns, while the stuffed dog did not have horns, just floppy ears.

Another odd thing was that there was nothing broken on the kitchen floor. When they moved the stuffed dog, the demonic shadow was gone. While Gloria had a hard time getting rid of the stuffed dog, she felt like it had to be done, so she ended up throwing it into the recycle bin.

As Gloria and Ariela went back to bed, they heard the song "24K Magic" coming from the living room. This was impossible because the stuffed dog was in the recycle bin in the garage and the batteries were taken out. Gloria immediately felt pain on her back, and Ariela discovered four long scratch marks on Gloria's back. This is when Gloria and Ariela decided to contact me.

Did a Curse Unleash Dark Forces?

I asked Gloria if she had any idea on why this paranormal activity started up in her house. She thinks that a woman that was new to their circle of friends may have cursed them. The woman, whom I will call "Jody," dabbled in black magic. When Jody got into a heated argument with the group, the group decided to befriend her.

Cursed friendship leads to eerie haunting and EVPs.

Gloria made sure that Jody was no longer invited to events that she and her girlfriends would attend. Jody even called Gloria asking why she was ostracized from the group. When Jody got the explanation, she cursed Gloria and Ariela. Jody told them that they would be tormented.

Gloria asked if I could do a house blessing and conduct a small confidential investigation. I accepted, and our psychic medium, Wish Fire, and I headed over to her home. I did manage to get two EVPs that sounded like growls. My EMF detector went off in the area where the stuffed dog would sit. Wish Fire detected a small devilish creature that was sitting in the corner of the living room. She pointed the area out, and that is where I captured two growling EVPs.

Gloria and Ariela are both Baptist, and I suggested that they invite a few of the congregation members to do a walk-through of the house, say prayers out loud, and sing spiritual songs. On November 7, they did just that. They got three congregation volunteers to come over, and they said prayers out loud throughout the house and then sang spiritual songs.

This method will project so much positive energy into the atmosphere that a demon or anything negative will most likely be compelled to leave. It's like taking a person that only likes rock and roll and taking them to a country music concert. They don't like the country music and will probably leave.

Dolls and stuffed animals can absorb the energy from a deceased person or demon. For example, at the Island of the Dolls in Mexico, some of the dolls appear to be possessed. From eyewitness accounts, the dolls will make strange verbal sounds or their eyes and heads will move.

I believe that Jody's curse opened a door for a demon to possess the stuffed dog. As of now, Gloria and Ariela's house is at peace — there has been no more paranormal activity. ◆
